

Join the Indiana Department of Education (IDOE) and Regional Educational Library (REL) Midwest for a webinar on supporting students' social-emotional learning.

Friday, September 27, 3:00-4:00 p.m. EST

How can you support students' social-emotional learning and development? Join IDOE's Office of School Improvement, along with the REL Midwest, for a webinar on Friday, September 27, to learn more.

In this webinar, presenters will showcase how educators can engage in social-emotional learning practices to support students' social-emotional learning and development. Presenters will discuss research on social-emotional learning, available resources, and specific practices that educators can implement.

Presenters:

- Christy Berger, Assistant Director of Social, Emotional, and Behavioral Wellness, Indiana Department of Education
- Sokoni Davis, Senior Consultant, REL Midwest

Objectives

- Understand what constitutes social-emotional learning and how it can benefit students.
- Learn how educators can continually support the social-emotional development of students.
- Access resources about social-emotional learning from the Indiana Department of Education.
